With an overactive mind of everything from eggs to gargoyles, Joseph struggles to understand his classes, let alone his fellow classmates. So he spends most of his time avoiding school bully Charlie Kastner and hiding out in the Resource Room, a safe place for misfit kids like him. When he meets Heather, the new girl at school, he realizes they aren’t that different.

When I found this book at my school library, I liked how vibrant and colorful the cover was, and conveys what the book is all about. It’s too bad this book isn’t in a series. I do really like the main characters in this book. Joseph and Heather are very interesting characters to read about.

I would definitely recommend this to any kid, especially ones in middle school as they are probably joining school sports for the first time as well. It’s an amazing book and readers of all ages will enjoy it.
